Back A: There are at least two problems with your code: Your MP3 player just gets over with the song and pauses automatically You're using window.location.href instead of MP3.player.url. So you should set up the MP3 player in a while loop, so it keeps playing until the song is finished, and then go to another page. However, that's not the way your site should work, you should have only one HTML file and load several JS files after it. If you need to have one main file where you load all the JS files, like the name suggests, it should be the document root of your site. That way, all your files are in one place and easier to load. You'll also want to put your sound files in the same directory as the JS files, so they can be loaded too. Putting this together, in a file called mp3s.html I've made the following changes: Go to Mp3s. And in the mp3s.js I've added the following: Just figure out how to organize your JS and file structure. If you're new to this, I suggest JS Frameworks like framework7, it will make your life easier. In the manufacture of semiconductor devices, there is a trend toward use of high-purity gases, such as those gases used for chemical-vapor deposition (CVD), chemical-mechanical polishing (CMP), dry etching

[Study on the distribution pattern of oral hairy leukoplakia associated with human immunodeficiency virus infection]. To explore the distribution pattern of oral hairy leukoplakia associated with human immunodeficiency virus (HIV) infection. The viral load and CD4(+) T lymphocytes of 91 patients with HIV infection were determined. The HIV and the viral load of each person who had oral hairy leukoplakia (HL) were examined. Multiple lesions of HL were found in 21 of 91 patients with HIV infection. The 51% (12/23) of the patients with oral mucosal CD4(+) T lymphocyte count below 200 percents had multiple lesions of HL. Majority of the 51 patients whose oral mucosal CD4(+) T lymphocytes less than 200 percents had multiple lesions of HL were also accompanied by the increase of viral load. Patients with HIV infection were prone to have oral hairy leukoplakia. Majority of the patients with HIV and oral hairy leukoplakia had low CD4(+) T lymphocyte count. Multiple lesions of HL were more likely to occur in patients whose oral mucosal CD4(+) T lymphocytes less than 200 percents. A higher viral load was associated with multiple lesions of oral hairy leukoplakia./* * Localized default methods for the jQuery validation plugin. * Locale: NL */ $.validator.methods.date = function(value, element) { return this.optional(element) || /^d{2,4}[V-]\d{1,2}[V-]\d{1,2}$/.test(value); } jQuery.validator.addMethod("date", function(value, element) { return this.optional(element) || /^d{2,4}[V-]\d{1,2}
