Mabe you need. I am thinking of creating my own website through my own company and build it off the net. This appears to be a good place to start, but it would be good to get opinions on the principles of the design process from designers. First, I have several questions for you to answer: 1. How do you design a website? 2. What are the major design principles you apply? 3. What are the big mistakes most designers make? 4. Is there a standard method by which a company should present their services to a website designer? 5. What should a company NOT do when requesting a website design from a designer? 6. What tools do you use to design a website? 7. What are the biggest problems you encounter when you design a website? 8. What should a designer look for when designing a website? 9. What is the most popular type of website? (A personal one, or a business one) 10. What is the least popular type of website? (A personal one, or a business one) 11. What is the biggest cost in creating a website? 12. Can you suggest what the best level is for website visitors, and what the worst level is? 13. Do you use any other software to help design a website? 14. Have you designed more than one website? How long
